Rio Hondo College Creates Center to Aid Adult Students

WHITTIER – Rio Hondo College’s Career Development Center has been renamed the Center for Career and Re-Entry Services (CCRS) to reflect its new role in providing comprehensive support for students ages 25 or older who are beginning their higher education journeys or returning after a five-year absence.

Adult re-entry students constitute about a quarter of all new Rio Hondo College students each fall – typically between 1,200 and 1,300 students.

“We wanted to create a place on campus where our adult re-entry students will feel at home and where their diverse educational needs can be met in a thorough and efficient manner,” said Superintendent/President Teresa Dreyfuss.

Adult re-entry students face a number of challenges specific to them that include financial responsibilities, childcare issues and balancing the demands of school, work and home, Re-Entry Services Counselor Angelica Martinez said.

“Our center is uniquely equipped to help our re-entry students succeed as they pursue their educational goals through a combination of services and support based on our deep understanding of their specific challenges,” said CCRS Coordinator Belen Torres-Gil, a counselor and professor at Rio Hondo College.

Along with the name change, the College has hired two staff members to work with adult students. The center will offer adult re-entry students:

- Individualized counseling for educational and career planning
- Assistance with their College application, registration and financial aid
- Use of a dedicated computer lab and career library
- Job preparation aid, including help with resumes, interviewing and job searches
- Free career assessments and interpretations
- Access to CCRS’s job and internship board
- Assistance with using social media for professional networking purposes
